

The Nation Today

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(AP)—Big big debate on the Berlin crisis begins today in the United Nations. That debate will have its roots in the main events leading up to the crisis. They are outlined here.

These are two kinds of events—economic and political—which are at the heart of the struggle for the future of all Germany. That struggle is between Russia and its wartime allies; The United States, Britain and France.

Just remember that in 1945 the four nations divided Germany into four zones, each occupying one, and they divided Berlin into four sectors, each occupying one.

The four were supposed to work together to restore Germany economically—by getting trade, business and jobs going again—and in time to restore it politically—by letting the Germans set up their own government.

But Berlin was a danger spot from the beginning. The four powers had their troops in Berlin, each in its own sector. And each was responsible for supplying its own troops and the Germans living in its sector.

But Berlin was in the Russian zone. Any supplies the western powers sent in had to move—if they moved by land or water—through the Russian zone. Russia could stop them any time it wished.

Instead of working together economically, the zones were working separately, with trade barriers between them.

The United States and Britain decided this couldn't go on, if Germany was to be restored to anything like normal. So they agreed to treat their two zones as one, economically.

Russia refused to go along. France refused at first but now is taking part. This was a big clash between Russia and the western powers but not as big as the political explosion that happened last spring. This was it.

Russia and the western powers couldn't agree on the kind of government they'd let Germany have. So early this year the western powers went ahead with their own ideas and started to create a new German government.

It hasn't been set up yet, but the western powers and the Germans living in their zones are working on it. When it starts, it will be independent of the Germans in the Russian zone, unless the Russians want to take part.

The Russians got so mad about this they began limiting the amount of supplies the western powers could send into their sectors of Berlin.

Then in June the western powers reformed the money in their zone. This was done to try to bring down prices, wipe out black markets, and help business by creating confidence in the money circulated there.

Almost immediately the Russians cracked back by reforming the money not only in their zone but in all Berlin, including the sectors controlled by the western powers.

Then, almost at once, the western powers cracked back by extending their money reform from their zones of Germany to their sectors of Berlin. So two kinds of money were circulating in Berlin.

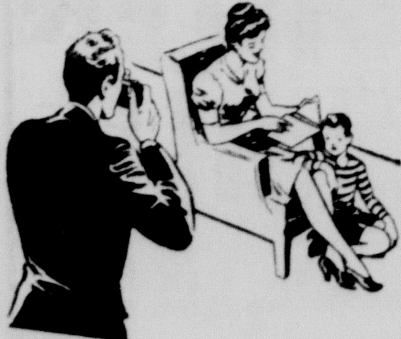

The Russians said this was too much of a mess. They cracked back hard; they refused to let the western powers send in any supplies by train, truck or boat to their sectors of Berlin.

The western powers started sending in supplies by plane. They've been doing that since early in the summer. It's tremendously expensive and may bog down when bad weather sets in.

Russia not only has refused to lift the land blockade, but is talking of blockading supplies by plane, too. So the west has appealed to the U. N.

Reduce Causes And Fire Loss Will Be Less

Four Main Reasons For Heavy Damage And Life Loss

The four major causes of fires in the state and nation last year were listed as follows:

Matches and careless smoking habits. Faulty electric wiring and apparatus.

Heating and cooking stoves and their pipes. Gasoline, kerosene, cleaning fluids and other inflammable liquids used carelessly.

It is pointed out by Fire Chief Hall that if the major causes of fires can be cut down, the major loss by fire can be reduced.

"When we are ill we generally doctor ourselves, or secure the services of a physician, and we aim to remove the cause of our illness," said Hall by way of comparison, and continuing he said:

"Now if the above named causes of fire are doctored, much can be done to reduce the nation's fire loss."

"The fire department stands ready to aid anyone desiring the services of a fire prevention specialist. Just consult us about any believed-to-be-fire-hazard," and we will be more than glad to give you the best advice possible. We would much rather prevent a fire than fight one which has already started.

"When fires strike, most people become excited and often become panicky to the extent that they forget what to do, and how to call the fire department to turn in an alarm. Learn how to turn in an alarm; learn the telephone number of the fire department so you can turn in an alarm quickly, or write it down near your telephone along with other emergency numbers. If you don't have number memorized or written down, call (0) for operator and state 'I Want To Report A Fire' and give address distinctly. Give your fire department a chance early. A tiny blaze, uncontrolled, can become a conflagration. It's the first few minutes that keep the little fires little."

"But best of all is to prevent as many fires from happening as possible, but in the event that fires do start, it is always the best policy to notify the fire department as soon as possible, and then fight the fire with whatever is available until the firemen arrive and take over, as often what would be large fires are kept small by the proper procedure being used after the discovery of the fire."

Co-op Play Pen Gets Trial As Kindergarten Substitute

BY FRANCES E. WING
PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y.—If your three-or-four-old youngsters are at that age, why not try a cooperative play group?

The three and four-year-olds are problems, I and my friends find, because they're much too big for playpens, too young for kindergartens, and too much of a handful for an unaided mother. Nursery school is a solution of course but one is not always available and a really good one may be expensive.

In a cooperative play group, a budget-minded mother can find almost everything she would in a nursery school plus some extra advantages.

Since such a venture can wither on the onslaught of the winter's first sniffles, it pays to give some thought to its organization.

Here in this New York suburb, a cooperative group of five mothers and their children is starting its second year after one successful season.

The plan is simple. One morning a week, each of the mothers has complete charge of the group. She collects the five little boys, supervises them for several hours, and returns them home for lunch. One mother must take the lead in organizing the group and seeing that it continues to function.

Days when the children can be outdoors are the easiest. The mother takes the five to nearby parks, beaches or woods. Or she lets them play in her own yard. When it rains, they play in garages, basements or playrooms. Halfway through the morning, she provides milk, apples or sandwiches.

She has opportunity to watch her own son in group play, compare his growth and development with that of the others, and help him make adjustments in a way not always possible for a nursery school director supervising many children.

The boys themselves have thrived. They have had lots of fun. They have learned to share toys and cooperate. They have been perfectly safe. They have gained poise through acquaintance with new homes, toys and friends.

The only real disadvantage has been lack of medical supervision. To offset that, each mother has been careful to check her own child's health so that his incipient cold would not spread to others.

When a cold affects the child of the mother in charge, it is possible sometimes for her to change days with another mother. But pains are taken not to carry this too far and not to carry credits and debits from one week to another. The danger here is that the book-keeping can get so involved that one mother gets the idea she is carrying more than her share of the load.

The basic necessity is fair mindedness and determination to make the system work, even when it causes inconvenience. On the other hand, the mothers have sense enough to realize from time to time that the cards are stacked against them for a week. Then they just call the whole thing off.

Newsmen Have A Word For It

Newsmen, like those in other fields, have their own words to describe their work. Since printing long has been essential to news, printers and newsmen often share use of special terms. Here are some of them.

BANNER, SCREAMER, RIBBON, BULL LINE—A large headline extending across the top of a page.

BEAT OR SCOOP—An important story or picture obtained exclusively for one paper or news service. "Beat" also designates the combined permanent assignments of a reporter.

CAPTION—The headline over a picture. Also sometimes used to mean "cutlines."

COLUMN—A recurrent feature usually written around a single subject and often written by one person.

COPY—Stories, pictures and other material prepared for use in a newspaper.

COVER—To report an event or situation.

COPYREADER—A subordinate editor who handles the physical preparation of copy for the printers.

CUT—A photo engraving from which pictures are printed. Also to shorten copy by editing.

CUTLINES—The printed text used with pictures, or copy for the text.

HEAD—A headline, usually set in big type over a story.

JUMP OR SKIP—To continue a story on another page.

KILL—To remove an item, a portion of an item or picture from a newspaper or destroy it so that it will not be printed.

MAT—An impression on special heavy cardboard or other material of a photo engraving or of type.

RIM—The place at which copy-readers work. Also, collectively, the copyreaders who work for a particular paper or department.

SLOT—The place where a chief copyreader works. Also the position of chief copyreader. Thus—"Joe is in the slot."

SLUG—Brief line placed on copy for identification.

WIRE SERVICE—An agency that supplies wire news to a number of newspapers.

X 30—The end 30 signifies that a story or task has been completed. Hence it is often used for quitting time, death, retirement, etc.

County Chorus Rehearsal Set

Enrollment in the Fayette County Chorus, which will present The Messiah in the high school auditorium early in December is proceeding, and registration and the first rehearsal for the presentation will take place Thursday night of this week, following choir practice, about 8:30. Loren Wilson, director, said Tuesday.

The first rehearsal will take place at Grace Methodist Church, and subsequent rehearsals will be at other churches, it is understood.

Director Wilson asks that all singers in the county who can take part in the chorus file their names with him not later than Thursday night, and appear for rehearsal.

Game Cancelled Because of Polio

DEFIANCE, Oct. 5—(AP)—Bryan High School officials have cancelled Defiance High School's scheduled football game in Bryan Friday night due to the polio outbreak in Defiance.

School authorities said they were unable to work out a postponement of the game.

Total number of polio cases in Defiance County has been set at 27 to date. Four have died of polio in the Defiance area.

New Paper Mill Is Set For Ohio

YOUNGSTOWN, Oct. 5—(AP)—A new paper mill designed to produce 50 tons of newsprint daily will be built in neighboring Hubbard, O., the Greater Youngstown Area Foundation announced today.

Newsprint will be made by deinking old newspapers, the foundation said, and the plant will be constructed by the American Industrial Co., of Buffalo, N. Y. The factory's cost was estimated at $500,000. Spokesmen said it should be in operation next spring.

The site is to be a 14-acre section occupied by the now-abandoned American Sintering Co. plant, purchased some time ago by the U. S. Metals Co., of Warren, O.

WHS Football Team and Band Deserve Credit

When our Washington High School football team makes as fine a showing as the present team has done this season there is good reason for all of us to be proud.

While the season is far from the finish there is every reason to believe that the Washington Hi team will set up a fine record this year, a record of which the school, the city, the coaches and the team itself can look upon with pleasure over a job well done.

Only a series of serious injuries or some other misfortune can prevent a high mark for the present team, according to those who know football and have seen this team in action each game. The three victories so far achieved have been convincing and prove that there is no "fluke" about the team play.

One of the fine things about all this is the excellent spirit on the part of the boys in the football squad itself. There is every evidence of cooperation and an "all for one and one for all" attitude. There is no effort to create one or two outstanding stars, no favoritism for any small group within the squad. The boys under excellent coaching by Fred Pierson and Steve Lewis, are giving all they have for each other. That's the spirit that makes a team click.

Fortunately the same attitude extends through the whole school body in regard to this team. And the people of the city have "caught fire" too. That has been evident in the way the games have been attended and in the manner in which hundreds of people have followed the team each time it has been played away from home. For several seasons there has been a loyal following for the school teams here.

Maybe the team will have an "off night" or run into some tough breaks on its schedule that will make it lose a game or two. While its ardent supporters hope this will not happen, such things do occur and overconfidence also can cause a "let-down" sometimes. We believe the coaches and the boys on the squad are seeking to guard against these contingencies. Anyway the people of the city and county are happy about the boys on the squad and proud of all of them, including the substitutes who day after day contribute their share to success by going out and taking a "drubbing" while giving the first string players the practise they need. We're all proud of them and we sincerely hope they will continue to win laurels.

While we're on the subject, we can't let pass the opportunity to speak in highest commendation of the Washington Hi Band. It is winning honors again and again. It has added wonderfully to the color and spirit of the season. Bill Clift has proven to be an outstanding director and the youngsters in the band deserve all kinds of credit for their work which could be gained only with many tedious hours of practise. The band is an asset to the city, the school and has reached the point where it is a great credit to itself. The recent trip to Cleveland was a recognition of this.

So we'll all continue to boost. Such things are fine for civic spirit and accomplishment.

Boxers Are Human Beings, Too

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK—(AP)—The neat, middle-aged little man had sad, bloodshot eyes, and he rapped his heart with the force of a blow. "I don't know how you say it," he said to Ted Smits, Associated Press sports editor, "but I have things in here I want to say. It is on my conscience like . . ."

And the rest was hard to understand because his Puerto Rican emotion filtered through a veil of broken English.

The little man said he was Tony Rojas, a fighter manager and Latin American sports promoter.

Wordlessly he held out a letterhead.

It was printed in purple ink and it showed the picture of a clean-cut, tawny-skinned boy in boxing trunks, fists poised wide apart. That was Kid Dinamita, 147, and the purple sheet of stationery said he was "the sensational welterweight champion of Central America, AUTENTIC."

But Rojas doesn't manage him any more. The Kid died last Wednesday night in Chicago after a fight.

Rojas looked silently at the letterhead. Then slowly he began to find the words he had walked into the office to say.

"What I want to say is . . . boxers . . . they should be treated like human beings. There should be padding in the ring . . . more padding . . . not enough now. Not enough for the cushion when the fighter he fall over backward . . . that sometime do more than the punch."

That was what happened, said the little man, when The Kid was fatally hit in his fight with Bobby McQuillan of Port Huron, Mich. A Chicago coroner's jury found Dinamita's death was accidental and recommended two changes in the Illinois boxing code to keep physically unfit fighters from the ring.

The Kid was knocked down in the seventh," said the little man. "When he came to his corner . . . he was weak. We revive him, and I told him . . . keep away from the other fighter . . . to clinch. "He was strong again when he went out for the eighth. The people, they start to boo him . . . he does not clinch anymore . . . he start to—what you say?—Mix it . . . yes, he mix it. "When the round it is over we get him back to his corner . . . he is still conscious. But he say his shoulders . . . they are very tired. "So I tell him . . . take it easy . . . I see his legs, they are trembling. "The Kid never came out for the ninth, and lost on a technical knockout. "The Kid say he is all right," said the little man, his voice thickening. "But when he stand up . . . I see he cannot carry his weight . . . so we put him in the stretcher . . . and later the ambulance it comes. "I am talking to him on the way to the hospital . . . The Kid laughs . . . that afternoon—before the fight—he had talk only about his family . . . about going home for Christmas. But in the ambulance he talk only about fighting . . . about how he will win the next fight okay. "But he talk natural . . . very natural . . . it look like nothing wrong . . . I didn't believe he going soon be deceased."

The little man said that at first they wouldn't let him into the hospital room where The Kid was being given emergency treatment, but he insisted.

"When I got inside I see on the right arm something like a transfusion. There was a tank and two things going into its mouth. "The Kid was going like this. . ."

Rojas drew in and expelled his breath violently.

"Out of his mouth was coming the saliva . . . white . . . hardly any blood. "Later they took me out, because I don't know why. I got some coffee. When I came back they tell me his pulsation—you know his pulse—it is low . . . and they wouldn't let me go in. "Then the doctor came out. I asked him how is The Kid. He tell me this way. . ."

Rojas wave his hand across his face, palms out.

"He's gone. The Kid. "I didn't break down . . . so I go in and saw him. A couple of nurses they were washing him. They tell me to get out. I ask the doctor, what he die of. He say maybe head injuries. They have to have autopsy. "Then I break down. "The little man turned to leave the office. "That is what I came to say. . . The Kid is a good boy. . . He pray before every fight. . . "Boxers. They should be treated like human beings—They should be more padding in the ring. . . More padding. The Kid. . . It is on my conscience. . ."

Kid Dinamita was to get $217 for his last fight. He arrives by plane in his native Santo Domingo tomorrow—in a casket.

Wallace Slipping in Campaign

By George E. Sokolsky

Last spring, the betting was that Henry Wallace would get at least 5,000,000 votes. No one experienced with American politics would bet that way today. It is now calculated that Henry might get at most 3,000,000. Many competent men would estimate that that is high because Wallace is definitely slipping as the campaign proceeds.

The shift in judgment is due to the growing certainty that Henry Wallace's Progressive party is a Communist front; that those who control the Communist apparatus in the United States control the Progressive Party. Wallace's speeches read as though they were written in the Kremlin. It is false that Wallace has become a slave of the Communists; if it is false that he closely follows the Kremlin line, it is his own fault that his own countrymen have come to think that way about him. That is the picture he now paints of himself, just as at another period he liked to be thought a mystic and queer.

The Communists do not believe in the two-party system. To them it seems a ridiculous institution, outworn and outmoded. They believe in a one-party system. Their idea is that whoever takes the power holds it as long as he can for whatever purposes he chooses. They do not speak of being elected to office; the phrase they employ is "seizing power."

"Millions of American working people have come to realize the futility of any further support for the bankrupt two-party system of big business. Both major parties are committed to the bipartisan war program, the Marshall Plan. Both major parties are united in this program of fattening the billionaires and bleeding the taxpayers."

Then this same platform says: "Millions of Americans, disillusioned with the two-party system, have given birth to a new people's party."

"The new Progressive Party is an inescapable historic necessity for millions who want a real choice between peace and war, democracy or Fascism, security or poverty."

"The Communists, who support every popular Progressive movement, naturally welcome this new people's party. We supported the Progressive features of Roosevelt's New Deal. We helped organize the C.I.O. in the 1930's, we have supported every Democratic movement since the Communists of Lincoln's generation fought the union cause during the Civil War."

We can skip that part about the Civil War because the Com-

Child Convulsion Frightening, Serious

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

CONVULSIONS in a child represent a frightening and serious situation and one which demands that the physician be called at once. Not only is emergency treatment necessary but an immediate study to determine the cause of the convulsion is needed. Only when this is established can steps be taken to prevent recurrence.

There are three main causes of convulsions in childhood. These are infections, epilepsy, and injury to the brain at the time of birth. There are also a number of less frequent causes.

Convulsions Occur
In about one case out of fifteen the convulsions occur in the first month of life. These, for the most part, are due to brain injury, bleeding into the brain, or swelling of the brain tissues due to the collection of fluid, known as edema.

In about one case out of eight, the convulsions occur during the next few months of life. These, for the most part, are due to infections, a disorder resulting from a lack of vitamin D and calcium, known as tetany, or from brain damage.

Acute Infection
In about half the cases, the convulsions occur between the ages of six months and three years. Most of these are due to an acute infection, epilepsy or brain injury.

In about one case out of four, convulsions occur between three and ten years of age and are generally due to epilepsy or infections. Convulsions occurring after ten years of age are, in practically all cases, due to epilepsy.

Thus, when a convulsion occurs, the age of the patient may help the doctor to determine the cause of the disturbance. A careful physical examination, together with a history of the symptoms, also helps to arrive at the cause of the convulsive attack.

Careful Study
The character of the convulsions should be carefully studied. If there is twitching of the face muscles, stiffness of the muscles throughout the body, and irritability, tetany is the likely cause of the difficulty.

X-rays of the skull may also be helpful in making a diagnosis. The child who has repeated convulsions should have a tracing of the brain waves made. This is known as an electroencephalogram. Not only is such a tracing most helpful in diagnosing epilepsy, but it may even indicate that epilepsy may occur before a seizure has ever been noted.

In those patients who have convulsions as a result of a fever, it is possible that epilepsy may occur before a seizure has ever been noted. Once the cause of the convulsions is found, the physician can decide on the most useful form of treatment.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
B. M.: What are the symptoms of breast cancer?

Answer: Cancer of the breast causes a lump or swelling in the breast. Frequently, the skin is fastened to the underlying tissues, and may be wrinkled. Later on, there may be enlargement of the lymph glands in the armpits, while the growth increases in size.

If there is any question about cancer of the breast, immediate study by a physician should be carried out. It may be necessary to remove a part of the tissue for examination under the microscope, in order to make a definite diagnosis.

Deutsche Appointed Legion Adjutant

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5—(AP)—Joseph S. Deutsche of Columbus has been appointed to a third term as American Legion state adjutant.

Charles P. Pfarrar of Dayton was named judge advocate and Harold Lutz of Ashland and Joseph T. Kennedy of Springfield were appointed to the state finance committee yesterday.

Commander Carl W. Smith of Kenton made the nominations, which were ratified by the new executive committee.

The committee set Aug. 6, 7 and 8 as the dates for the 1949 convention in Columbus and adopted a resolution opposing a proposed state of Ohio veterans bureau. Don W. Schoeppe of Warren, national executive committeeman, introduced the resolution.

Tito-Stalin Row Echoes in Canada

OTTAWA, Oct. 5—(AP)—Pavel Lukin, councillor at the Yugoslav legation here, said last night he and six other legation attaches had resigned.

Lukin said in a signed statement the seven had quit because of the fight between Premier-Marshall Tito of Yugoslavia and the Communist International Information Bureau (Cominform).

"I consider that the policies pursued by the present Yugoslav government represent a betrayal of the fundamental interests of our country," the statement said.

Sorority Has Guest Speaker At Open Meeting

An open meeting of the Ohio Zeta Upsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, honoring guests of members was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. William Graham. The president Mrs. Ray Jennings welcomed the guests on behalf of the sorority, and Mrs. John E. Rhoads gave a brief sketch on the aims, purposes and scope of the sorority.

Mrs. Robert Allen, also gave a resume of the history of the sorority. This was followed with a short talk given by Mrs. Jack Hickman on the chapters outstanding achievements.

Mrs. Graham parliamentarian, outlined the procedures used at regular meetings.

The program in charge of Mrs. Charles Spetnagel, was highlighted by the guest speaker Miss Nita Gullick, of Nottingham, England. Her talk was most interesting as well as informative, on the current conditions in England and her tactful way of comparing their way of life with ours both in war and peace times. Miss Gullick also answered the many questions asked by the group.

Refreshments were served by the hostess during a pleasant social hour, assisted by Mrs. Carl Denney. Guests present were, Mrs. Harry Campbell, Mrs. Eugene Heath, Mrs. Ivan McDaniel, Mrs. Robert Olinger, and Mrs. Robert Munsell.

Shower Honors Recent Bride

Mrs. Duane Mason, Mrs. Russell Mitchell, Jr., of Jeffersonville and Mrs. Paul Maugher, of this city, entertained with a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Russell Mitchell, Sr., in Jeffersonville, complimenting Mrs. Jack Mitchell, nee Margene Stewart, a recent bride. The home throughout was decorated with beautiful arrangements of pastel colored chrysanthemums, for the occasion, and games were provided for entertainment of the guests during the early part of the evening, with awards in these going to Miss Joan Little, Mrs. Alvin Little and Mrs. Charles Funk.

The lovely gifts were presented at the dining room table which carried out a pink and white color scheme, and each was graciously responded to. Tempting refreshments, further carrying out the pink and white theme, were served and the guests lingered for informal visiting.

The guest list included: Mrs. Sam Stewart of Sabina, Mrs. Ervin Bowen, Miss Bonnie Bowen, Mrs. Vernon Mason, Mrs. George Reddy, Mrs. Joseph Hidy, Jr., Mrs. Paul Knisley, Mrs. Robert Bowen, Mrs. Jesse Hoppes, Mrs. Lawrence Clark, Mrs. Donald Porter, Miss Lucille Bates, Mrs. Wayne Dowler, Mrs. Wayne Bond, Mrs. Raymond Bush, Mrs. James Boren, Mrs. Harry Stimpfle, Mrs. Ramona Marshall, Mrs. Marvin Roush, Mrs. Marie Ensign, Mrs. Leonard Allen, Mrs. Marvin Brown, Mrs. Tom Kemp, Miss Norma Jean Wilt, Mrs. Alfred Roush, Mrs. Alvin Little, Miss Joan Little, Mike and Gail Mason, Mrs. Charles Funk, Miss Phyllis Dill, Mrs. Don Fent and Mrs. Gerald Pence, all of Jeffersonville.

Mass Survey Shows Three Have Active TB

Sept. 21 Clinic Records One More With Fluoroscope

Three positive cases of tuberculosis were found in the mass survey conducted by the Fayette County TB and Health Association and the health department in the Eagles club rooms here September 22.

Seven other cases are suspected but will bear further investigation, according to the reports that have been mailed to physicians by the health department.

Other conditions, including heart conditions, found in the X-ray surveys amounted to 34, Miss Gretchen Darlington, head nurse of the health department declared Monday.

She stated that the results of these 44 diagnoses which show pathological conditions have all been mailed to the family physicians concerned. Therefore she asked that people not call the health department to ask the diagnosis of their cases. All those who have not yet received word from the survey have probably no disease recorded in their X-ray photo, Miss Darlington added. The 598 photos which showed essentially negative conditions have been recorded and those people will be notified soon through the mail.

Results of the clinic held Sept. 21 also have been sent to the doctors who recommended the 20 patients for fluoroscope examination by Dr. Damon E. Wetterauer on that day.

One active TB case was found in this clinic, one questionable TB was found and nine non-tubercular conditions were also reported. Four of the persons referred to the clinic were found to have inactive TB conditions.

Both the clinic and the mass survey were arranged by the health department and the Fayette

YOU WOMEN WHO SUFFER HOT FLASHES then FEEL CHILLY-

Here's Good News!

Are you between the ages of 38 and 52 and going through that trying functional "middle-age" period peculiar to women? Does this make you suffer from hot flashes, feel clammy, so nervous, irritable, weak? Then try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms! It's famous for this! Many wise "middle-age" women take Pinkham's Compound regularly to help build up resistance against this distress. Pinkham's Compound contains no opiates—no habit-forming drugs. It helps nature (you know what we mean). This great medicine also has what Doctors call a stomachic tonic effect.

Ohio Leads Nation in Farm Electricity

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(P)—More farms get electricity in Ohio than in any other state in the union.

A new report by the Rural Electrification Administration states that 215,379 farms in the state are electrified, or 97.6 percent. This is the highest percentage in the nation.

For the nation, 68.6 percent of all farms were receiving central station electric service at of last June 30.

The big increase in service has been since 1935. Then only 18.8 percent of Ohio farms were electrified, and 11 percent in the nation.

Less than 5,200 farms in Ohio now are without electric service, the report said.

Post Office Receipts Will Set New Record

Income So Far This Year Is $7,336.20 Ahead of 1947

Receipts at the Washington C. H. Post Office are headed toward an all-time high mark for this year, is the belief expressed by Postmaster W. E. Passmore, Tuesday, after he had made public total receipts for this year as compared with those for the same period last year.

Receipts at the office here from January 1, 1948 until October 1, reached $52,287.56 as compared with $44,951.36 for the same period last year. This represents an increase of $7,336.20 for the nine months, and indicates that the receipts during the remainder of this year will show continued increase over those for the same period last year.

Cancellations for the same nine months this year reached 1,483,417 as compared with 1,296,050 for the same time in 1947.

This is an increase of 187,367 in cancellations for the nine months. As result of the above figures, there is every reason to believe that the income will continue to show a gain and may reach in excess of $10,000 by the close of the year.

Present indications are that the Christmas mail this year will be equal to or above that of last year, and this is always the source of heavy income.

Phi Beta Psi Sorority Discusses Plans For New Projects At Meeting

Mrs. Charles Cummings was hostess to the members of Phi Beta Psi sorority at the home of her mother, Mrs. Hazel Devins, on Monday evening and had as her assistants, Mrs. Harford Hankins, Mrs. Louis Baer, Mrs. William B. Clift, Mrs. Samuel Sauer and Miss Suzanne Willis.

The business meeting was presided over by the president, Miss Clara Story, during which the members decided to send clothing to needy families in Italy, and Miss Anna Liscandro was appointed to be in charge of this project. Lengthy discussions were held and several new projects with no definite action taken on any of these.

The meeting was brought to a close and bridge was enjoyed during the remainder of the evening, which concluded with the presenting of awards to Miss Clara Story, who was the holder of high score, Mrs. L. F. Everhart, second, while third went to Mrs. Robert P. Wilson.

Regular Meeting Of M. H. G. Class

Mrs. John K. Abernethy extended cordial hospitality to the members of the M. H. G. Class of the First Presbyterian Church, when they assembled at the manse for the regular monthly meeting Monday evening, with 40 in attendance. The rooms were decorated with beautiful arrangements of gladioli in shades of orchid.

Mrs. A. B. Murray, the president, opened the meeting by reading the quotation for the month: "There is No Moment Without Some Duty."

Mrs. Harold Callender conducted the impressive devotional period consisting of Scripture reading, and short articles entitled "October," and a poem "The Pillars Of Home." She closed with prayer.

The usual reports were read and approved and Mrs. Frank S. Jackson, chairman of the courtesy committee announced that 15 calls had been made during the month.

Gifts were brought to be sent to an overseas family. A large donation of material for rug weaving was brought to be sent to the Veterans Hospital at Chillicothe. The meeting was closed with the usual benediction.

A tempting dessert course was served by the hostess and her assistants, Mrs. Frank Jackson, Mrs. Ida Himmler, Miss Ruth Donohoe, Mrs. T. C. McArthur, Mrs. Mayme Murray, Mrs. Ralph Hays, Mrs. Walter Thompson, Mrs. Frank Hard, and Mrs. W. E. Roberts and the members lingered for a pleasant social hour.

Guests Entertained At Dinner Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Birtus Thornton were host and hostess at their home near Madison Mills on Sunday for a delicious covered dish dinner.

The guests were seated at one long table centered with fall flowers for the congenial dinner hour and the afternoon was spent in informal visiting.

Guests included were, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Black of Columbus, Miss Fannie Graves of Marion, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Johnston of Blanchester, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holden of Good Hope, and Mrs. R. L. Vance of this city.

DAR Celebrates Fiftieth Anniversary At Luncheon

When the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution was only eight years old, Miss Florence Ogle organized the Washington Court House Chapter, 1898.

Highlighting the early autumn social scene, was the golden jubilee luncheon, Monday, when the Washington Court House Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution celebrated its fiftieth anniversary.

One hundred fifty-three exquisitely gowned members, their guests, regents from neighboring chapters and state and national officers assembled at the Washington Country Club for a one o'clock luncheon.

Gorgeous arrangements of golden hued flowers were used throughout the club lounge, and gold and bronze chrysanthemums and marigolds centered the table which were in "U" form with the speakers table forming the base of the "U".

Hand painted place cards, the work of Miss Bess B. Cleveland, helped the Daughters to find their places.

There they found gold "mums" nosegays and program menus which told of the good things to be enjoyed during the luncheon and afterward.

These programs were a gift from the Martha Washington Junior committee, for the occasion.

Members of the Junior Committee did the serving of the very delicious two course luncheon and passed the "Birthday Cakes" which appeared as a surprise following the luncheon.

When the tables were cleared Mrs. John M. Weade, regent, extended greetings to all members and guests present. Mrs. D. H. Rowe, chaplain, offered prayer. Mrs. A. S. Steiner led the salute to the flag and all joined in singing one verse of the National Anthem, with Mrs. Walter Craig playing the piano accompaniment.

A message from the President General was read by Mrs. Forest Allen De Bra—the secretary's report of the June fourteenth sunset supper was read and approved.

Mrs. John E. Rhoads then sang in her beautiful clear soprano, two lovely numbers: "Morning"—Oley Speaks and "Shoes"—Manning—Mrs. W. S. Paxson accompanied at the piano.

Mrs. Weade, Regent, then presented the distinguished guests, who had honored this fiftieth anniversary with their presence. First, Mrs. James B. Patton, of Columbus, Vice-President General. Mrs. Patton is a former member of Washington Court House

Chapter. Then, Mrs. F. O. McMillen, Akron, Ohio State Regent, who expressed the wish that the next fifty years would be just as successful as the past fifty. Those next introduced by Mrs. Weade were: Mrs. Charles W. Wendelken, of Portsmouth, State Chaplain; Mrs. Charles A. Longstreet, State Recording Secretary; Mrs. Ralph O. Whitaker of London, Corresponding Secretary; Miss Charlene Mark, South District State Director, and Mrs. G. R. Grimsley, Director of the Southeast District, who told us that the Southwest District had the greatest number of chapters who have celebrated fiftieth anniversaries. The Regent, Mrs. Weade, then introduced the visiting State Chairmen: Mrs. Fred Dobbins, Cedarville, Americanism; Mrs. George E. Emrick, Correct Use of the Flag; Mrs. E. E. Terrill, Wilmington, Credentials, and Mrs. M. M. Harrison, Junior Membership. Then followed introductions of the visiting Regents. They were: Mrs. R. T. Williamson, Cedar Cliff, Cedarville; Mrs. J. There are four living charter members of the chapter, but the only one able to attend the celebration was our beloved Miss Emma Jackson. Miss Jackson spoke of some of the chapter's accomplishments in the earlier days of its existence, saying that we always took part in everything done by National. Mrs. W. D. Beatty, Historian, gave a very splendid account of the chapter since its founding in 1898 with the twenty charter members up to the present with its one hundred and forty three members.

A delightful close to this Golden Jubilee celebration was a novelty song "Love Somebody," by Barbara Ann King and Larry Barker. Following the song, small Barbara Ann then favored with an acrobatic dance that drew round after round of applause. Larry Barker, in full costume, closed their part of the program with a Cossack dancing. Mrs. Barker played for the dancing.

Team Taken off Field When Lights Go Out

BY FRITZ HOWELL

(By the Associated Press)
H. W. Emswiler, Ohio high school athletic commissioner, had an interesting decision to make today.

At Orrville Friday night the unbeaten home towners met Mansfield Madison also undefeated. With 8:20 minutes to go the lights went out on one side of the field, with Orrville leading 19 to 12.

Orrville wanted to continue play, offering to turn auto headlights on the dark side, but Madison Coach Ennis Walker said "no soap" and called his team from the field. Didn't want to chance injuries in the shadows, he said.

Orrville claimed the game, but Walker referred the matter to Emswiler in the belief it should be called "no contest."

Governor Gets Around

Down in Butler County they're bragging about Gov. Thomas J. Herbert attending two high school games in one night. The chief executive sat in on the first half of the Hamilton-Chillicothe game (Hamilton won it 44-0) and then raced 12 miles to Middletown to watch the Middies defeat Lima South 26-6.

He missed all the fireworks at the latter spot, however, as half-back Babe Calhoun scored three touchdowns and two extra points and then sat out the final periods. The Middies, with three wins and a tie, have a tough chore coming up—Springfield Friday night and Steubenville the following week.

Two Clean Sweeps In Fraternal Loop

The Eagles turned in the highest team score, 22:17, as the Fraternal League bowling got under way on the Main Street lanes here Monday night, but they were able to win only two out of three games from the American Legion outfit.

At the top of the heap after the first night's battles were the Marshall and Forest Shade Grangers, both of whom made clean sweeps of their matches. The Seldon and Good Hope Grangers were the whitewash victims.

In the other match, the Madison Grangers rolled 21:32 to take two games of their match from the Fayette Grangers before dropping the last tilt by five pins.

Lion Cubs Ready to Go To Circleville

The Lion Cubs, still just a little chasty over their 20-6 victory at Xenia last week in their opening game, today were looking forward Thursday night when they go to Circleville to take on the Tiger Cubs. The game is slated to start at 7 P. M.

The Lion Cubs may not have looked like much in their assorted and dirty uniforms when they made their debut at Xenia, but they played a lot of football—just the way they had been taught by Coach Ronald Guinn.

And, this week they have been bearing down with all they've got during their drills at Wilson Field every evening.

Neither Coach Guinn nor members of the squad are saying much about the strategy they have been working out for the game at Circleville. But, the impression has been given that the Cubs not only did not use all the tricks in their bag in their first game, but they also have been stuffing in a few more this week, just in case they need them Thursday night.

Notre Dame Rated at Top

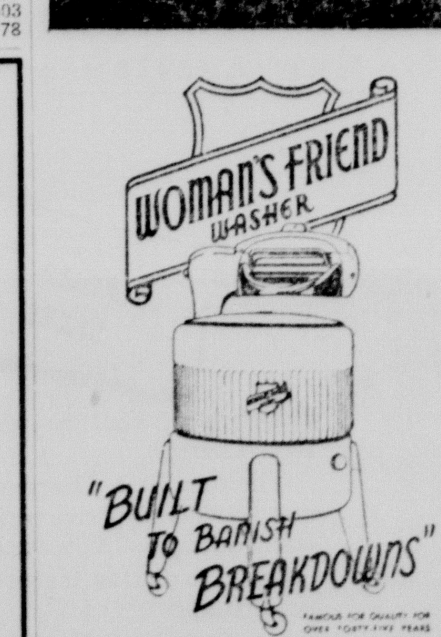

By WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(P)—Notre Dame has renewed its lease on the No. 1 spot in college football's Big Ten.

On top of the heap at the end of the last campaign, the Fighting Irish moved right back into their penthouse in the first Associated Press poll of the new season.

One hundred and fifty-three sports writers from throughout the country gave Frank Leahy's proteges a total of 1,200 points—enough for a squeaking edge over rampant North Carolina and surprising Northwestern.

Points are awarded on the basis of ten for a first place vote, nine for second and on down the line. North Carolina, which has rolled over Texas and Georgia, received more first place votes than the Irish—55 to 50—but fell 10 points short in the overall balloting with 1,190.

Three of the four matches rolled in the opening of the Fraternal League bowling on the Bowland lanes Monday night. In the other, the Elks turned in a two-out-of-three victory against the Sabina Moose.

The Rotarians, with a 2299, had the high team score for the evening as they turned back the Country Clubbers with a 2160 total.

The Mt. Sterling Boosters had their hands full in trimming the Record-Herald crew, 21:22 to 19:18, even after they got by the first game with a 12-pin edge.

The Mt. Sterling Eagles had a similarly tough time in making a clean sweep of their match with the Universals.

Max Lawrence rolled 546 for the evening's high three-game score.

Lions Getting Ready For Greenfield Game

Skull practice, as is customary, was the first on the agenda for the Lions of WHS when they gathered at Gardner Park Monday after school to start preparations for the game with Greenfield's Tigers here Friday night.

With three victories—all by impressive scores and defensive records—under their belts, Coach Fred Pierson and Backfield Coach Steve Lewis emphasized that the everpresent bugaboo of overconfidence was one of their worries, though not a big one.

The boys are pretty level-headed, the coaches said, and are not inclined to over-rate themselves or to take the Greenfielders too lightly.

If there had been any undue inflation, the report of Coach-Scout Ronald Guinn must have stuck a pin in the balloon. Guinn, who watched the Tigers maul London, 27 to 12, last Friday night, said Greenfield had a team that was improving and showed enough stuff to give the Lions plenty of trouble if they suffered any let-down.

For the first time this year, Guinn reported, the Tigers are at full strength. Some of their key players were on the bench when Jackson went back with a 7-0 victory in the opening game. The Lions trounced the Ironmen 27 to 0 the next week.

After the skull session, the Lions took to the field to put into practice two new offensive plays they had been given. Only a dummy drill was used, however.

There was some work on a passing attack, but Coach Pierson said the Lions probably will not take to the air against the Tigers. He expressed confidence in the WHS running attack with the line showing such improvement on the offense.

Just so the boys who spend more time on the bench than on the field during games would have a little fun out of the play, the first and second strings were turned loose for a scrimmage session that had all the elements of a regulation game. Incidentally, Pierson said, it all helps get them ready for the replacement roles they are sure to be handed soon or later.

On the card for Tuesday night was an offensive workout against the reserves using some of the Greenfield plays. Wednesday, the Lions will work on their defense against the reserves using the Tiger offense.

Morale of Girls Lifted by Show At Reformatory

Some Even Return From Outside to Take Part in It

MARYSVILLE—(AP)—It's show time again at the Ohio Reformatory for Women.

The 1948 edition of the reformatory's Reilly Revue is in rehearsal with the prospect of opening in mid-November.

The annual reformatory musical has grown to be an Ohio fixture. Originally launched as a morale project for reformatory inmates by Mrs. Marguerite Reilly, the institution's superintendent, the show has outgrown its auditorium.

Now the revue must play several consecutive days to accommodate the hundreds of Ohioans who drive to Marysville for the affair.

"The show is a fine thing for the girls," said Mrs. Reilly. "It gives them an interest in life, an outlet to blow off emotional steam and a new measure of self-confidence."

Mrs. Reilly turned to a quiet little blonde—a 21-year-old who gradually is coming out of her youthful shell under the understanding coaching of Mrs. Reilly. The hall was comparatively quiet and the chorus girls were taking a rest.

"Get up on the stage, darling," Mrs. Reilly said. "Let me hear how you sing."

The girl walked quietly to the microphone, obviously scared stiff. It was her first appearance as a singer. She finally began her song, a cute number about spending a day in the country.

"Get your eyes off the ceiling," Mrs. Reilly chirped. "Smile, honey, smile. Sell your song."

You could barely hear the girl's voice over the amplifying system. "Look," said Mrs. Reilly, "you're singing about a day in the country and you look just exactly like 365 days in Union County. Now, come on, honey, smile and sing up."

Before the test was over the girl had conquered her stage fright and another potential star of the Reilly Revue had been found.

The reformatory show may have been just another morale effort, just another bit of work, when it began. Now the girls take it as seriously as Flo Ziegfeld ever took his famed follies.

The girls even will come back from freedom for another shot at the stage in the reformatory auditorium. It actually happened a few years ago, when Mrs. Reilly badly needed a star.

A girl who had served a year's parole and had been a free woman for still another year came from another state to help out.

Of course, not all girls take it quite that seriously. A girl who is a natural in a clown part of one skit is due to be paroled Oct. 28.

"What are we going to do for a clown now?" asked Mrs. Reilly. The girl shrugged, then smiled

SYNOPSIS

Beautiful model, Gail "Kitty" Rogers, is in love with Sam Meredith, clever devil-may-care reporter, but decides not to marry him. With Sam there would be no settled home life, no security, instead she accepts the courtship of wealthy Brad Spencer, whom she does not love but greatly respects. She is entirely honest with Brad as to her feeling for Sam, her fear of poverty, her jumpy little childhood, Brad takes completely in love with her but realizes he has a powerful rival in Sam, whom Kusty cannot forget. Brad's austere Victorian grandmother is greatly worried over his new found romance. She invites Gail to tea to look her over. Late next night Brad and Gail drop into the Stork Club, where they meet Sam, who is in a desperate, jealous mood. Gail tells Brad she is through with Sam.

CHAPTER TEN

"SAM ASKED me to marry him," said Gail, "or, rather, he assumed that I would, and with gratitude. He was big about it," she remarked acidly, "because it's entirely against his principles."

"And?" asked Brad. He held his breath a moment. He thought, She's been badly hurt. He expected an enormous tenderness and pity, sharper and more compelling than desire.

"I refused."

The cab stopped at the brownstone house but Brad made no move to get out. The driver asked, "This the place, Bud?" and he said, "Yes. Wait a moment, will you?"

He leaned forward and the street light illuminated his grave face, the bright brown eyes. "May I call you?" he asked.

"Of course."

"My grandmother will, also." He added, "She's meticulous about some things, Gail; but not about others. She's extremely forthright. It's probably a form of arrogance. She speaks her mind when it suits her to do so... on the theory that attack is better than defense."

"You're warning me?"

"Perhaps."

"All right," said Gail. "Does she know anything about me?"

"No."

"Do you?"

"All that seems necessary."

She was silent and he added, "Could we be engaged to be engaged?"

He put his arm around her, gently, demanding nothing. He asked, "Well? You've nothing to lose, you know."

And everything to gain, she thought. Her head ached with a sudden violence. She said, with an effort at lightness, "That's unwise of you, Brad. I might take you up on it."

"I hope so. In the interest of research, do you dislike my arm around you?"

"No," she said truthfully. It was even pleasant, the arm to lean upon, a shelter, the promise of safety.

"Or this?"

He bent and kissed her, not too casually, and that was pleasant too... not exciting, not painfully pleasurable, but pleasant.

She said, "No, Brad, I don't dislike it."

"Good," he said. "Well, think it over. I'll call you within the next few hours... I may have to go off to Washington again but not before the end of the week."

She could see him smile, seemingly undisturbed. She thought, Copyright 1947, 1948, by Faith Baldwin Cuthrell. Published by Rinehart & Company, Inc.

He's a strange person, and was troubled because she could not read him clearly or fit him into any familiar pattern.

He got out of the cab and spoke to the driver. "Wait for me, will you?" he asked, helped Gail out, and took her to the door. He did not offer to shake hands. He simply looked at her, still smiling, and said, "Thanks for a very hopeful evening."

"Brad—"

"What?"

"Never mind, just thanks, for everything."

"Sometime you will finish what you wanted to say and then thought better of it. This isn't, perhaps, the right moment or the right place. Let me have your key."

He took it from her, and opened the door. "Good night," he said and went back to his cab and she heard, as she climbed the stairs, the door slam and the car start.

In the cab, he thought, Who has hurt her so much? Sam, of course, but it isn't altogether Sam, there are other wounds.

He was a stubborn man and a patient one. His work called for stubbornness, patience, endurance. It also called for hope.

He thought, We have plenty of time, and was instantly aware that he was not certain.

Gail fumbled for her other key, at the door of the flat. A light burned in the little living room, and it was silent there. The girls were in and asleep. On the telephone table she saw the propped note, with Evie's scrawl across its face. Evie had written: "Gail, that madman, Sam, called twice—he woke me up."

When? she thought, standing there in her fur jacket and shivering a little from nerves and fatigue, before or after we saw him?

The telephone rang again with a crazy shrillness, telephones sound so much louder and insistent after midnight, and she lifted it from the cradle and spoke softly into it. "Yes?" she asked.

Evie's head poked itself around the door of her bedroom. She said crossly, "For Pete's sake—oh, you're in, Gail..."

"Gail?"

"Yes."

"This is Sam. Remember me, poor but dishonest?"

She said, "Sam, you waked Evie up, twice, you're impossible..."

"Tell her she requires no beauty sleep. His voice was somewhat loud, and his words blurred. 'I gave you time to get home... if you did go home.'"

"I am home... obviously."

"Put Spencer on, baby."

She said evenly, "He isn't here."

"Strictly from etiquette," he said approvingly.

"Sam, it's very late."

"Oh sure... Should she ask him in?" he said. "No, of course not... not if he's a nice young man with twenty million dollars and innocent of evil."

She said, "This is a stupid conversation."

"We'll decide about that tomorrow," he answered, and hung up abruptly. Her eardrums hurt, first with the clatter, then with the silence. She put the phone back on the cradle gently and turned. Evie was still standing there, a robe tossed over her shoulders, her small feet bare; disheveled, and pink from sleep, she looked enchanting.

She came into the room and sat down in a big chair and curled her legs under her. "What cooks?" she asked. "I couldn't sleep anyway... thanks to your young man."

Gail sat down and took off her jacket. She said, "Brad took me to the Stork. Sam came in, with a couple of girls and another man. I never saw any of them before. He stopped at the table... He was still there when we left. I suppose he thought we'd had time to get back, when he phoned."

"Where were you?" asked Evie. "No, that it's any of my business."

"Outside, talking, in the cab." She leaned her head back against the chair. "I'm awfully tired," she said.

"Look," said Evie, "I don't want to stick my neck out and I suppose the reason the three of us get on so well is because we don't... but why don't you give Sam the brush-off? There's no percentage in things as they are."

"I did, last night."

"Oh?" Evie lifted an eyebrow. "And he won't stay brushed?"

"I don't know."

"You'll find out. I liked Brad Spencer," said Evie thoughtfully.

No glamor boy, except for the gilding, but a solid citizen. Do you like him, Gail?"

"Yes."

"Is it possible," Evie asked, "to divorce him from the money? I mean, subtract the money from him and look at what's left?"

Gail said, after a moment, "No."

"That's too bad," Evie told her, "because maybe he rates it. But me, I couldn't either. I suppose he's used to it by now."

Gail got to her feet. She said, "I'm half dead... night, Evie."

Brad went into the bedroom door with her and stood there, watching Gail take off her frock.

"In your shoes," she said, "I'd latch on to Spencer... no matter how. But then I'm ambitious, I'm not plagued by scruples."

doesn't, and won't, make me a tramp because I'm too smart for that. But you..."

She shook her head. "Sam Meredith's bad for you," she said soberly, "in marriage or out of it. He was bad for Betty, but he'd be worse with you. Betty's all body and no brains. Watch your step," she warned, and went back to her own room.

When you're so tired you don't sleep, Gail lay awake and went back over the evening, step by step. It made very little sense. She got nothing out of it in retrospect except that Sam wasn't giving up, probably because she had not given in, and that, although he had not said so in so many words, Bradford Spencer was in love with her.

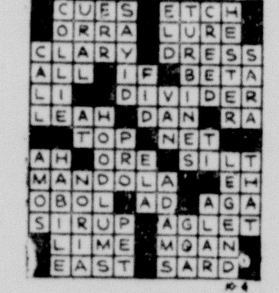

She liked him; she liked him very much. Liking was more durable than love, and if you made a promise you kept it.

But she was afraid to sleep, because if she slept she would dream.

First Fayette Men Will Take Physical Tests

Five Report on Oct. 8 and Inductions Come In November

Five of Fayette County's registrants for military service have been notified to report October 8, for physical examination, at 235 N. High Street, Columbus, where a U.S. recruiting station is located. The men are the first called for examination, and from this number will be selected the first men to be inducted into military service under the peacetime draft.

The first men will be inducted sometime in November, and there will not be more than two or three from Fayette County, it is indicated.

All men being called for physical tests are unmarried, and non-veterans.

Names of the men reporting for physical examination have not been announced.

County draft boards in Ohio will get their quotas for the December call-up sometime next month, state selective headquarters has reported.

A selective service spokesman said the quotas will go out about a month before actual drafting begins. The November quotas have already been issued.

Draft headquarters will try to stagger reporting dates for the various counties, the spokesman said, so as to prevent overloading the draft machinery on any one day.

High School Holds Magazine Drive

High school students will be selling magazines to people in this community starting Tuesday afternoon.

A percentage of profits from this sale goes to the school according to Principal Stephen Brown who said they would be used for the library, the stage, and special assemblies.

This magazine drive has been an annual affair for the past 20 years, Brown said and the "kick-off" assembly for the affair was held in the high school auditorium Tuesday morning.

John Payne of the Curtis Publishing Co. and Albert Gray of the Crowell-Collier Publishing Co. addressed the students at the gathering.

Both renewals and new subscriptions will be handled by the students and they will call on the people who helped in the drive last year as well as many new prospective subscribers.

Brown asked that those who wish to subscribe, but are not called on during the drive, phone his office to make arrangements to subscribe to magazines.

Firemen Summoned When Smoke Appears

When smoke was detected in the basement of the Washington Hotel shortly after midnight, Monday night, the fire department was notified and Fire Chief Hall investigated.

It was found that smoke was coming from the furnace room where, it was stated, workmen had failed to insulate pipes close to woodwork, and the wood was becoming scorched.

Chief Hall remained at the hotel for several hours while precautions were taken to prevent recurrence of overheated wood which might result in a fire.

The hurricane followed almost exactly the same course as the storm of mid-September.

Hurricane warnings now extend from Jupiter southward on the east coast, and from Naples southward on the west coast.

The ominous warnings also were raised over the Lake Okeechobee area where hundreds of acres of rich vegetable land still are under water from the mid-September hurricane.

Norton said five inches or more of rain would fall along the hurricane route.

"It will mean real trouble for the Everglades," he predicted.

Norton said if the storm traveled fast probably not more than five inches would fall but if it slowed

Three Taken To Hospital For Criminal Insane

Quirk in Ohio Law is Cited by Prison Officials

Three Fayette countians were taken to the institution for the criminal insane at Lima, in custody of Sheriff Orland Hays Tuesday forenoon for 30 days of observation before further disposition is made of their cases by Judge H. M. Rankin.

The men are Clare Woodruff, theft of a watch at Jeffersonville; Clarence Webb and William Binns, for rape of a minor girl with consent.

Woodruff was sent to the institution under a law of many years standing, which gives authority to a court to send prisoners up for observation if the court is convinced such action is necessary to establish whether or not the prisoner is suffering mentally.

Binns had been sentenced to the Ohio Penitentiary, and Webb to the state reformatory at Mansfield.

When Binns was taken to the penitentiary, the warden cited a law which has been in effect several years, requiring that in such offenses as committed by Binns and Webb, the offenders first be sent to the Lima institution for observation as to their sanity, and then if found to be sane, they are taken back to the home court for disposition.

As a result of the stand taken by the prison officials, both men were returned here, taken before Judge Rankin, and ordered confined in Lima State Hospital for 30 days observation.

If found sane, the two men again will be taken to the state prisons to which they were sentenced.

Should they be found mental cases, they will remain in the institution at Lima.

down the rain would be heavier and probably around eight inches.

He said the storm would continue its present northeastward course.

Storm warnings flew from north of Jupiter to Titusville on the east coast.

Communications were out between Havana and Pinar Del Rio in the western Cuba cigar tobacco area, which apparently was in the path of the storm.

Jose Arroyo Maldonado, Associated Press reporter in Havana, telephoned to Miami that "it appears there were several hundred persons injured in Havana alone. Property damage in Havana was heavy, and glass littered Avenida De Italia, better known as Galea-no, in the heart of the business district. Business houses on San Rafael and other streets in the downtown business area suffered pretty heavy damage, much as broken windows, and so on."

"In the tin and cardboard community of Havana known as Llega Y Pon (arrive and settle down), loss of life was avoided because the inhabitants were warned well in advance.

"The El Encanto department store on Galeano, and other stores in the business district, lost a lot of glass.

Peggy Norris Chosen Queen For Friday Homecoming Game

Peggy Norris, pretty blue eyed blonde daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Norris, was chosen Monday as the WHS queen for Friday night's homecoming football game.

Peggy will reign as queen during the homecoming exercises Friday at Gardner Park when the Lions play Greenfield's Tigers.

She and her court will have special seats during the game and the coronation will take place just prior to the contest.

Peggy is recently out of the hospital after recovering from an injury to her eye suffered on the Country Club golf course about a month ago.

She is the third of the Norris sisters to be chosen queen at the homecoming. Donna Jean, now Mrs. Willis Coffman, was queen in 1939 and Alma Jane, now Mrs. Robert Boyd was queen in 1942.

Members of her court will be Leona Scott, Nancy Boylan, Dixie Ellison, Hannah Salyer Sandra Campbell and Joan Davis.

Troop 112 Holds Overnight Camp

An overnight camp at the Hook farm on the Greenfield Road was held by the Boy Scouts of the American Legion Troop No. 112 last week end.

A council fire and a wiener roast was enjoyed by the eight boys and their leaders. Singing was led by Scoutmaster Maurice Hopkins who also led the group in the Sunday morning services.

Achievement tests were passed by many of the boys over the week end and the benefits to the spring paper drive were again felt as some of the campaign equipment, bought with the proceeds, was used.

Assistant Scoutmasters Allen Hays and Jack White helped with the camp and Committeemen Robert Hook was the host.

Scouts there were Robert Lewis, senior patrol leader, Paul Woods, Dick Tracey, Don Scott, Billy Morris, Marion Cook, Harold Roberts and Jack White.

The big Cleveland ball park with its 95,000 capacity is certain to set a new series record.

If it goes seven games despite the size of Braves Field which holds only 40,000 bulging at the seams, a new record cut for the winning players may result. It's certain to be many thousands of dollars more than an all-Boston Series would have provided.

Meters Pay $16,205.68 So Far This Year

Parking meter collections for the past week totaled $426.05, according to figures announced at the office of City Auditor, Miss Marie Melvin.

Of the above amount $185.65 was from the collection counted last Thursday, and $240.40 from the count made Monday.

So far this year the total meter collection here has reached $16,205.68, so that by the end of the year the collection should be around $22,000.

Since a careful watch is being kept on meters generally, very few slugs have been placed in them, and only a few battered and Canadian coins are used.

At each count of the collection, a few dimes are found among the one and five cent pieces, and this more than makes up the loss of any slugs or worthless coins.

Crosby Products

The breath-neutralizer goes on the market this week in 144 stores east of Texas and will be in stores west of Texas by November.

The Crosby "Breath-o-lator" is an inhaler. You breath the vapor from a lipstick-size gadget into the mouth and lungs thus combating, says Crosby, bad breath at the source. It costs $1.

First installations of the motorized filing cabinet will be in the aircraft and other companies owned by Howard Hughes. The FBI and credit associations also are interested, says Crosby.

Do YOU Own A "Scratching" Dog?

Does your dog constantly scratch, dig, rub, and bite himself—often until his skin is raw and sore? He may be perfectly clean and flea free, but suffering from an intense itching irritation that has centered in the nerve endings of his skin. He is in torment and can't help scratching—until he tries to help him. Try giving him Rex Hunters Dog Powders, once each week, and note the quick improvement.

One owner writes: "If my dog could talk I know he would say thanks for Rex Hunters Dog Powders. He was raw and sore from scratching and just lay around. Now he plays and is full of pep. Ask for Rex Hunters Dog Powders at any good drug store, pet or sport shop. Only 30c. Large box only $1.00."

Important. Continued diarrhea—rectal itching. When your dog shows such symptoms, suspect Worms. Rex Hunters Dependable Worm Capsules give immediate results.

Tired, "All-In"—Listless Feeling Brought To Halt

As Vibrant Energy is Released To Every Muscle, Fibre, Cell

Do you get up in the mornings still tired, feel down and-out all day? Have you checked-up on your blood strength lately? Overwork, undue worry, cold, flu or other illness often wears down the red-blood-cells.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloot and give off that sour "od taste."

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.
